

California Poppies

Katinka Clementsmith

After a rare rainy winter, our local hills are covered with beautiful California poppies, and once you see them in full bloom you will never forget them. Even in dry years, you can see them in spring popping up here and there along our hiking trails and even occasionally working their way through cracks in pavement.

Insta: @KatinkaBelleArt
<https://katinkabelle.com/>